ABOUT PLAIN SOURCE

WHO WE ARE AND HOW WE CAN HELP

P lain Source helps its clients to leverage Enterprise Architecture to break through old patterns and achieve lasting change. We are in a critical time for digital transformation. Enterprise Architecture frameworks are hitting their limits. How can you use the architecture to navigate complex system landscapes and deliver products that are truly useful to your organisations?

How We Can Help?

Before embarking on a successful digital transformation journey, you need to address the following questions:

- Are there a clear set of realistic targets?
- Which IT assets to modernise and when?
- How to transform processes, applications and architectures?
- How to build, integrate, and deploy software?

To help you answer these questions and define how to execute a successful transformation, we advocate a practical approach.

Who We Are?

Plain Source is a small consultancy company specialised in Enterprise Architecture. We combine strong architecture and technical leadership with a background that includes architectural strategy definition and complex system integration. We work with you to create architectural strategy, ratify it with stakeholders, and help you implementing it. We

- Advocate practical architecture, no ivory tower architecture.
- Connect across teams, promote lean architecture and agile practices.
- Deliver value by using our skills and extensive architecture experience.
- Devise innovative and pragmatic solutions.

Our Approach

To be efficient, we use our own assessment tool, DART (Discover, Assess & Recommend Tool). The tool is built on our home-grown consulting experience which supports a principle-driven data capture and scoring features. Our assessment yields directional recommendations and is the launching pad for digital transformation.
